It has not only been a hard season for the fly so far, but conditions affecting the development of the pest are going to become more unfavorable, the health experts believe, because of the fact that citizens in every section of the District are manifesting a determination to keep their premises clean, and thereby usher in a flyless era.

The slogan this year is "starve the fly!" rather than "swat" him. The experience of the two campaigns conducted inder the auspices of The Star for the elimination of the disease-spreaders points to the starving method as the most effectual means of extermination.
